Are To Be Distributed to Children of the City, in Addition to the Christmas Presents.

Bloomfield & Ratliff, managers of the Winchester Auditorium, have sent to Miss Sue Peddicord, secretary of the Associated Charities, tickets for all of the poor children and their mothers, to whom the Santa Claus committee will send Christmas, for the moving picture show on Tuesday. Dec. 27. These tickets will be distributed at the same time that the Santa Claus committee sends out its packages on Saturday afternoon and all holding such tickets will be admitted free at the Auditorium of Tuesday afternoon.

This is a most generous act on the part of Messrs. Bloomfield & Ratliff and is highly appreciated, not only by the Associated Charities, but the little ones, who will thus psosibly have an opportunity of seeing a picture show for the first time in their Associated Charities Committee Is Preparing to Assist Him to Please the Children.

Santa Claus has arrived at the Associated Charities' room, and it would do anyone's heart good to go here and see the preparations which are being made for the little folks of the city-candies, nuts, oranges, apples, bananas, toys and all kinds of

The committee had a long table placed in the room and the packages are being arranged so that they can be sent out to the homes on Saturday afternoon, and thus enable the mothers to have the little ones hang up their stockings Saturday night when, instead of waking up Sunday morning with the stockings empty. old Santa will have arrived and filled them to overflowing with all the goodies that can be found anywhere.

All who are interested in this Christmas work are cordially invited to come to the Associated Charties' room on Saturday to see the manner in which the committee handles this large distribution. There will be over 180 children supplied, and the distribution will go off just like clock-

The finance committee reports that money is coming in very slowly, but the purchasing committee is not standing back on this, as they fel confident that the good people of this city will supply the money, and that the lack of funds will simply be a deay of a few days. They know that he people will furnish the money and they are determined that the children shall have Santa Claus.

RECIPROCITY.

One of the greatest statesmen that our country has produced was Jas. G. Blaine. He missed being President by a narrow margin and and then only by the fool remarks of preacher at a banquet in New York just before the election in 1884, and if he had been nominated in 1892 he would have been elected. It was Mr. Blaine who conceived the idea of reciprocity with our neigrboring countries. Since the death of Mr. Blain but little has been done in the way of reciprocity.

The country with which we are most closely related is the Dominion of Canada. We want closer relations with Canada and the feeling of the Canadians is shown by the following, taken from an exchange:

"One thousand well-todo, sturdy Canadian farmers from the far western portion of the Dominion thronged the house of commons in Ottawa on Friday last, demanding freer trade with the United States.

"Their demand was emphasized as regards the abolition of duties upon agricultural implements and machinery.

"To comply with their request means less revenue from various sources to the Canadian government. but it means more successful and more profitable farming and more extended area of tilled lands.

"It means more food produced for the world outside of the borders of the Dominion and increased foreign trade and more flourishing conditions at home to the Dominion's inhabit-

"To the United States, where so many manufacturing establishments. employing hundreds of thousands of persons, are engaged in outputting implements and machinery, compliance with the demands of the Canadian farmers by the government would mean larger outputs, larger sales and the employment of increased forces of workingmen.

"In the reply of the Premier, Sir Wilfred Laurier, to the petition of the parliament to attempt to legislate upon the subject at this time while negotiations are pending with the

DON'T LIKE THE LAW

If the new law providing that the regular circuit judges shall act as special judges operates everywhere like it has in Pulaski county it is a farce and a failure.

The first special judge appointed to hold a term had two weeks' business and spent one week, and without notifying the attorneys or litigants never returned to close the court, and let jurors, litigants and witnesses return the next week at an enormous expense, but never showed up again. He might have some excuse, as he was chairman of the Democratic committee, and the court he was to hold was just before the

The second instance was a special term called for last Monday, and while the jury, witnesses and parties were here for business, no judge showed up until Wednesday morn-

It seems that the additional $1200 dded to the judge's salary is doing he citizens no good. Had we not better return to the old system of the members of the bar electing a special udge? We can get just as good service at less expense.—Somerset Republican.

LOVERS KILLED ON

Graduates of Deaf Mute College Embrace Each Other at Station and Fail to Hear Whistle.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Dec. 21.-While two lovers, deaf and dumb embraced madly on a railroad track here Monday night they were run down by a fast passenger train, which instantly killed the girl, Rose Lee, of this city, and fatally wounded her lover, Roy Tunison, of Rock ford, Ill., who had come to Janesville for a Sunday call.

He was about to take an interurban electric for home, and when the two were saying their farewell the train rushed upon them, and they did not hear the whistle, owing to their affliction. The girl was thrown 60 feet and was dead when picked up. The man suffered a fracture of the skull and both legs were broken. He cannot recover, the doctors say. The two students together at the state school here for the deaf, graduating last June.

Candlesticks.

If you must use a candle in a hurry and cannot find a candlestick, try putting the candle into the neck of an empty bottle. If you can get one to fit approximately, it will serve quite as well. A little shaving with a penknife or melting with a match will fit the candle into a bottle a bit too

GOOD WATER.

A Presbyterian minister was out riding along in the mountains of Tennessee one summer afternoon. The day was hot and dusty and he became very thirsty. Hearing some water trickling from a spring above the road he hitched his buggy and went up an dsaw an old colored man sitting by the spring. "Good morning, Uncle," he said. "Is this pretty good water?" Yes, sah; dey ain't none better. Three or four phrenologists done scandalized dat water and found it was deposed of four substances. One was aurora-borealis, another was hydrophobia and the third was appendicitis, an I declare, boss, I clean done forgot what dat fourth one was, but it was something just as good."

The statement surely is true That this is no time to be blue. Your pleasure is owen' To trading with Bowen: Because of "Our present to you."

SANTA'S DILEMMA

Old Santa Claus had come to town, And he was feeling blue;

His stock of gifts was very small, He knew not what to do. He called his counselors to him And told them all his wee:

"This tariff has sent prices up To heights I cannot go, And unless something is done soon To help me in this row The people here will have small use

For me a year from now." His counselors all shook their heads; They had no word to say; This was the hardest nut to crack They'd had in many a day. They'd had in manwled and looked full grim But each one passed it by, And Santa Claus in dark despair

At last a stranger near the door Advanced and bowed full low And said, "If I may be so bold I may assuage your woe. I know the place where you may find The very things you need, So if you wish your troubles done The thing required is speed."

Heaved forth a mighty sigh.

Old Santa Claus, he smiled full broad, This news was good to him; His counselors danced round the room, They showed surprising vim. The stranger led them through the street, But uttered no word more. They came and saw. They're happy At Bowen's Jewelry Store.
